

Harding Motor Company

The Harding Motor Company is a family concern. Founding Director, Steve Harding has over four decades of experience within the motor industry. They are rightly proud of their long-serving staff, some of whom have been with the company since 1993 when it opened, and the business is still at its original location in Boathouse Lane, Parkgate. Over time, they have built an enviable reputation for supplying quality, well-prepared, fully serviced, mainly one-owner used cars at the right price, combined with first-class after-sales care and warranty.

Steve told Heswall Magazine: "We have a reputation for treating our customers with absolute integrity. We have up to 100 low-mileage one-owner cars with full service history. Many motorists are confused as to what to buy – whether it should be petrol, diesel, electric or hybrid. It all depends on each customer's needs and we are happy to discuss and advise what suits you best."

Steve continued: "Our competitive pricing policy and generous part-exchange prices ensure we are comparable with any other company. Many dealers now charge a buyer fee when you buy or sell a car, but we never will. We are also happy to offer home demonstration or test drives."

In the event that Hardings don't hold your vehicle of choice in stock, their sourcing department will be happy to assist in locating a suitable car to your specific requirements without any obligation for you to purchase.

Hardings' Service Department has a fully equipped workshop with highly qualified technicians and an MOT testing station. They offer free local pickup and return, and courtesy cars are available.

With a vast array of reputable industry contacts, including main dealers and major companies, Hardings can offer a choice of literally thousands of cars available at any one time. They can also arrange finance, subject to status and are a Black Horse approved dealer.

Barnston qualifies for grant

Organisations and residents living in Barnston are the 500th community in the UK to sign a joint funding deal with Openreach, the business responsible for Britain's largest phone and broadband network, to get the high-speed fibre technology.

The project is the first to be signed in Merseyside and will bring ultrafast FTTP (Fibre to the Premises) broadband, capable of speeds up to one gigabit per second (Gbps), to Barnston – more than 20 times faster than the current average broadband speeds in the UK. Organisations in the community, led by Barnstondale Activity Centre, are funding the fibre broadband with the help of an education grant of nearly £25,000 from Openreach's Community Fibre Partnership (CFP) programme.

Longcroft Christian Fellowship, Christ Church, the Fox and Hounds pub and J O'Grady Reclaim are four of the other organisations in Barnston who have funded the project and are set to benefit.

Morris Rowlands, Deacon of Longcroft, said: "The fibre broadband will provide us with a much quicker speed and provide an improved service for those using our premises or staying with us. In the past, the situation has been challenging and has caused headaches. The fibre broadband is just the prescription to relieve them. It's also nice to know the community around us will benefit to a high degree from the work Openreach is carrying out."
