

Thornton Hall in the running for Afternoon Tea of the Year Award

Thornton Hall is hoping to fight off fierce competition in order to once again take home a title at the Afternoon Tea of the Year Awards.

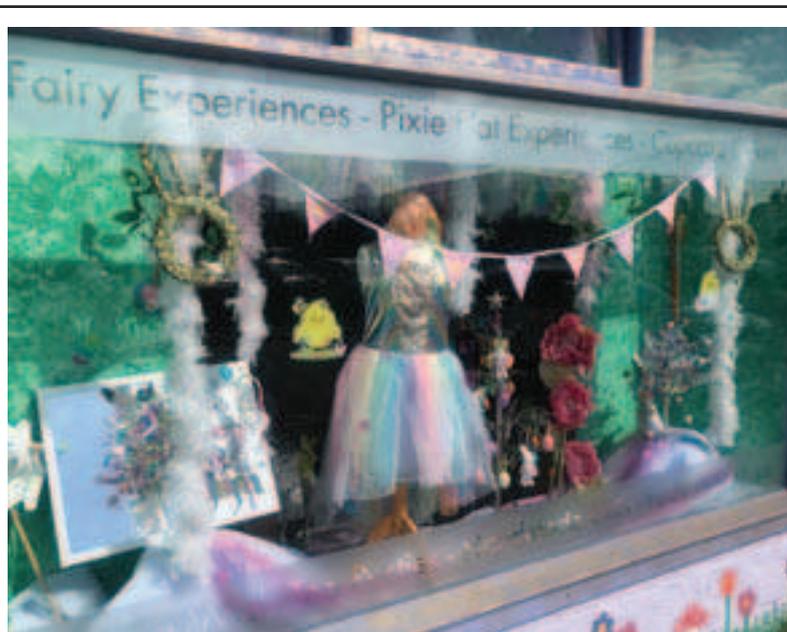

Having won the award for 'Best Tasting Afternoon Tea of the Year' in 2018, this year Thornton Hall Hotel are hoping to be awarded with another top prize. The team will be travelling down to London to compete against a number of high-profile venues from all over the UK, including Claridge's, Fortnum & Mason and Coworth Park.

Now in their third year, the prestigious awards recognise the best in afternoon tea service and creativity from some of the UK's finest hotels, restaurants and tea rooms. The awards, judged by a team of industry experts, look at all aspects of the afternoon tea experience from booking to departure, with a strong focus on the food, drink and service.

General Manager of Thornton Hall, Geoff Dale, comments: "We are delighted to be shortlisted for the Afternoon Tea of the Year Award for the second consecutive year. It is a huge credit to our team and to be up against many five-star London venues is a great achievement in itself."

Judging will take place on Friday 14th June 2019 at the Westminster Boating Base in London.

For more information on Thornton Hall's afternoon tea or to book, visit: <https://www.thorntonhallhotel.com>

HDBA Window Competition

Andrew Cain from Cain of Heswall recently organised a 'Window Display Competition' on behalf of the Heswall & District Business Association (HDBA).

First place went to The Pixie Door by the Sugar Plum Fairy in Milner Road (see picture) with Earth Flowers in second and The Roy Castle Charity Shop in third. Thanks to all businesses that took part.